

Individual Comments from the Consultation

Comments for making changes to the maximum Limit for Council Tax Support Scheme

Residents need to be asked to pay a little more as they use the same services as people not getting CTS

If you use the services you should pay

Everyone has to make a contribution to their local service provision. Government cuts reduces local services therefore we all have to pay more.

There should be an increasing incentive to find work to be less reliant on support like this

If we need to make savings changes have to be made.

To help people adjust the step changes should allow a little time to review their circumstances

Cut back on spending on holidays etc. I think this is still a generous level of support.

25% seems fair to me, I was receiving income support until my partner recently moved in and the amount of council tax I was paying was very little

I feel I shouldn't have to subsidise the "vulnerable" to this degree, via my contributions to council tax or any other tax.

its about time you councils got your act together and stop wasting tax payers money funding the lazy free loaders.

Comments against making changes to the maximum limit for the Council tax Support Scheme 100% support for those in need.

Charge more council tax to those that can afford it as opposed to giving less support to those who need it.

The poorest should be exempt from paying already too many people live in poverty why penalise them?

The poorest in our area should not have to pay more. Those of us with more money should pay more.

I wouldn't be able to pay anymore as we already struggle

This is like Robin Hood in reverse - a truly terrible idea.

think it is unfair to find the savings from some of the most vulnerable residents within the district and cuts should have to be found elsewhere

Council tax is difficult to pay for some people who are already on low income changing it will just make it worse

In these times of austerity need to support the vulnerable

We should, rather than cut support for the poorest in our county to make savings, raise taxes on the richest to make up the needed funds.